

Discussion Under Rule 98

U.S. patent 6,391,345 issued May 2002 describes the refining of cold pressed cranberry seed oil, and is incorporated herein by reference. American cranberries, Vaccinium macrocarpon, are native plants of open, acid peat bogs in North America. Raspberry seed oil can also be cold pressed using this process. Raspberry plants are evergreen perennial vines that produce runners and upright branches with terminal flower buds.

Respectfully submitted;

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'A. O'Lenick, Jr.', with a stylized, cursive script.

Anthony J. O'Lenick, Jr.
Applicant
June 8, 2003
(678) 442-0210
2170 Luke Edwards Road
Dacula Ga 30019